

SELL OUTS

Buyer Finally Picks Up 141 Fifth Avenue's Cupola Penthouse

→ Flatiron District
Comment now

About 1 hour ago

Tweet
Like

1

It's all happening all of a sudden at 141 Fifth Avenue, which spent more than a year in "almost sold out" purgatory before unloading two penthouses in February. Now a buyer has finally picked up the creamy cupola in an all-cash deal, selling out the building. According to the press release from brokerage Erika Associates, the buyer, who "prefers to remain private," spent $12.9 million on a 5,600-square-foot 6BR, 6.5BA penthouse at the building, which matches the description of the cupola/penthouse N combo even if it doesn't match the $17.5 million asking price. Perhaps there was a discount for the combined toilet/shower and time spent languishing on the market.

- 141 Fifth Avenue #CUPOLAN [StreetEasy]
- Construction Wraps Up on 141 Fifth's Cupola Penthouse [Curbed]
- 141 Fifth Avenue coverage [Curbed]